

AMCI Celebrates 40 Years of Innovation

Terryville, CT – April 2nd, 2025 – Advanced Micro Controls Inc. (AMCI), a leading provider of industrial automation solutions, proudly celebrates its 40th anniversary. Since its founding in 1985, AMCI has been at the forefront of motion control, specialty I/O, and position sensing technology, delivering solutions that enhance efficiency and reliability in industrial applications.

Over the past four decades, AMCI has built a reputation for engineering excellence, continuously expanding its product offerings to meet the evolving needs of the automation industry. From its early days designing resolver interfaces for Allen-Bradley PLCs to developing integrated motion control solutions, AMCI has remained committed to delivering innovative, high-performance products that empower manufacturers worldwide.

“As we celebrate 40 years in business, we remain focused on our mission to develop cutting-edge automation solutions that help our customers succeed,” said Matthew Tellier, Sales Manager. “Our success is built on strong engineering expertise, trusted partnerships, and a commitment to delivering high-quality products.”

As AMCI marks this milestone, the company extends its gratitude to its customers, partners, and employees who have contributed to its success. With a strong foundation and an eye toward the future, AMCI looks forward to continuing its legacy of innovation in industrial automation for years to come.
