

AMCI Adds Sales Rep to Florida & Georgia

Terryville, CT – Automation Support Group is now representing Advanced Micro Controls Inc (AMCI) in Florida and Georgia.

AMCI has realized growth in Florida and Georgia, and recently added sales representation to better service the expanding market. AMCI's local sales representatives have a deep knowledge base of AMCI products, and provide assistance with product selection and support. AMCI sales reps work with a large number of Allen-Bradley, Schneider, and GE distributors who together, will help customers and OEM's find the best solution for their application.

Jeff Windau of Automation Support Group brings over twenty years of motion control experience and distribution channel support to AMCI's Sales team. Jeff will be supporting the growth of AMCI's business by working closely with the channel, customer orders, and introducing innovative new products from AMCI to the market. With a previous successful background in Sales & Marketing at Rockwell Automation (Motion Control business), Jeff understands and respects the value of a well informed distribution channel.

"I'm very excited to be working with AMCI at a time when the market is looking for innovative, and cost effective motion control solutions on a network. The AMCI offering of modules tightly coupled to the PLC is perfect for so many applications that require scalability from one machine build to the next. I know AMCI to be a proven player in the industry, and I'm happy to be a part of the growth plan moving forward." – Jeff Windau, Automation Support Group
